Integration Solutions for Amazon Marketplace

Fulfilled by Merchant (MFN)

Our most popular integration is for customers selling on Amazon Seller Central and fulfilling their own orders. Integration points typically include:

- Amazon orders to Sage 100 sales orders – orders coming in can find an existing customer by the e-mail address, set up a new customer account or send all the orders into one Amazon customer account. All the relevant data comes in with the order so there is no additional work on your end other than to process and fulfill.
- Tracking, Shipment Update and Inventory Quantity sync to Amazon – once the order is picked, packed, and shipped, the Amazon platform is updated with the shipment confirmation and the order is closed. Inventory quantities-on-hand can also be kept in sync with the accounting system.

Fulfilled by Amazon (FBA)

For customers who qualify, Amazon will warehouse their goods and fulfill their orders. Every month, or sooner depending on activity, in addition to receiving the net income, Amazon will send the Payments report detailing sales, returns, credits and commission fees. Integration for FBA typically includes:

- Amazon orders to Sage 100 invoices – similar to MFN order integration except the paid orders coming into Sage 100 invoice data entry rather than sales order entry
- Amazon Payments Report – import for credits, sales, returns, commissions posting in minutes

Vendor Central

By invitation only, if Amazon becomes a full-time distributor of your products and the accounting for the activity can become a real pain. Our vendor portal solution performs the following integration:

- Drop ship and direct-ship orders are uploaded to the vendor order portal
- Automatically create Sage 100 sales orders (or invoices) from each order

“ What People Are Saying

We experienced a huge time savings with automating the daily creation of invoices and payments from Amazon. It's hard to quantify the value IN-SYNCH and ROI has had on our business, but without integration we wouldn't be able to keep up with the volume.
